News from the CHEX Network

In this issue we draw attention to the interesting work of two community health initiatives in Scotland, CHANGES Community Mental Health Project and Wellbeing and REACH Community Health Project.

CHEX is always keen to promote the work of its network members, so if you are working in a community project around the areas of community health and wellbeing then please update us on what you are doing. Email Andrew at andrew@scdc.org.uk or phone 0141 222 4837

CHANGES Community Mental Health Project – call for board members

Would you like a new challenge to help shape the work of a local community health project? CHANGES Community Mental Health Project was established in 1996 to promote positive wellbeing and provide opportunities for people in East Lothian to find ways towards healthier and less stressful living. They are currently recruiting for new members to join their Board of Trustees. If you can spare 4 to 6 hours per month on a voluntary basis, have an interest in Mental Health provision in East Lothian and have the skills/experience to shape and influence the work of the project, then please get in touch. If you have a background in finance CHANGES are also recruiting for a Treasurer.

If you are interested and would like to find out more, please telephone CHANGES on 0131 653 3977

Alcohol Initiative Project for Roma and Sikh communities – Glasgow

REACH Community Health Project in partnership with the Alcohol/ Drug Prevention & Education South Team is delivering participative workshops for the Roma and Sikh communities residing in the South East area of Glasgow. These workshops are part of an Alcohol Initiative Project funded by the Alcohol Initiatives Fund (Glasgow City Council).

The separate participative workshops will be held to give individuals from each community an opportunity to voice their understanding about alcohol related issues (irrespective of whether or not they consume alcohol). Information and advice will be given on alcohol related issues from a health promotion perspective in the form of participative discussions, and feedback from the participants will be recorded.

The workshop for the Roma community is on Tuesday the 22nd of August 2011 and the workshop for the Sikh community is on Thursday the 25th of August 2011. Each day includes two sessions (morning and afternoon). The morning session is from 10am till 12:30pm and the afternoon session is from 1:30pm till 4pm. Food and refreshments will be provided on the day as well as participants will be reimbursed for their travel on the day.

The findings of the project will be made available in the form of a research report which will be helpful in future to tailor services according to the needs of such communities

Please contact Sharon DSouza on 0141 585 8024 or sharon@reachhealth.org.uk for more details.

Community development across Europe

CHEX's parent organisation, the Scottish Community Development Centre, has been awarded funding through the Grundtvig programme of the European Commission to take part in a network for community development with marginalised social groups. Other partners are the Hungarian Association for Community Development, Estrategias de Transformacio Comunitaria Sostenible (Barcelona) and the Association of Local Democracy Agencies, which is based in France and works in the Balkans and Caucasus. The aim of the project is to allow for mutual learning about innovative tools of community work to strengthen the capacity of the partnering organisation to combat poverty and support the social integration and citizen participation of excluded social groups.

This will result in a practical guide on community development with marginalised social groups as well as short films on the localities and projects visited through the programme.

For more information contact Stuart Hashagen on 0141 222 4837 or stuart@scdc.org.uk

SURF Awards for Best Practice in Community Regeneration

The 13th annual SURF Awards for Best Practice in Community Regeneration will take place on the evening of Thursday 8th December 2011 from 6:30pm in Glasgow's Radisson hotel. The presentation dinner is an opportunity to join regeneration friends and colleagues from all sectors to celebrate the quality and diversity of community regeneration projects from across Scotland.

The SURF Awards is supported by the Scottish Government, and independently judged by a panel of 16 representatives drawn from relevant national organisations and community groups. If you are aware of a project or initiative that you believe deserves particular recognition, please consider nominating it for a 2011 SURF Award in one of four categories: People, Place, Partnership and Employability for All

To find out more about the awards and how to apply visit the SURF website. The closing date for applications is Monday 12th September 2011.

Special collection of social enterprise materials

A special collection on social enterprise has recently been handed over to the Glasgow Caledonian University (GCU) library. The collection includes archive papers and documents on Community Development, Community Enterprise, Social Enterprise and Social Accounting and Audit. They have been assembled by John Pearce, a well known figure in the Scottish social enterprise movement, throughout his working life. To these have been added the Community Business Scotland archive of papers and reports from 1981 onwards.

The collection ties in with the new Masters in Social Enterprise course being run at GCU in partnership with the Social Enterprise Academy. It also has clear and useful cross-sectoral links to related fields of interest. Once catalogued, it is planned to make it more widely accessible, beyond university users. The next step is for CBS Network and GCU to work together to attract funding for an archivist to sort and catalogue the collection. An initial sum of £30,000 will be sufficient to jump start this work. The two organisations are now keen to attract further papers and documents that will contribute to this becoming the leading reference point for the history and future development of policy and practice in social enterprise in Scotland and beyond.

Gleam – The Musical!

NHS Ayrshire & Arran's Oral Health Promotion Team have teamed up with young people to produce a musical on the theme of oral health. Gleam the musical will be part of an educational resource which will be used within secondary schools throughout Ayrshire. The idea was first born following consultation with over 700 young people to find out about their existing oral health knowledge and also their preferred learning styles. This highlighted the need for the basic messages to be reinforced, while focussing in on some issues particularly relevant to teenagers, such as smoking. It also showed that drama and workshops were the styles of learning that they felt they would most enjoy, and so with this in mind the team developed the concept of 'Gleam – The Musical!' - writing the script, choosing the songs and holding auditions with Doon Academy to select the 'cast'. The final product will be a multifaceted DVD resource which will involve recording the cast throughout the school in the style of 'Glee'

This ties in with the launch of the team's year long social marketing campaign, 'Gleam – embrace the power of a smile'.

The team are actively looking at new opportunities to make oral health promotion a fun and engaging topic. The team hope that creating the Gleam brand will allow a move from an approach which sees people being campaigned into behaviour change to one which allows the development of products and services that make it exciting and easier for people to change.

For more information on this new development contact Suzanne Holden, Senior Oral Health Promoter (NHS Ayrshire & Arran) on 01294 323455.

Changing lives through comedy

Universal Comedy is a charity and social enterprise set up in 2004. Its main aim is to improve the health and wellbeing of young people and adults who are isolated in the community due to ill health and have lost their social networks as a result of their health difficulties. Universal Comedy uses comedy workshops and courses as a vehicle for participants to develop their core skills, confidence and self-esteem as well as promoting their health and wellbeing. The organisation has received funding from the Esmee Fairbairn Foundation to provide these comedy workshops and courses free of charge to people with ill health who self-refer in Edinburgh and the Lothians, Lanarkshire and Greater Glasgow and Clyde in 2011.

Contact Linda on 0141 564 1200 or e-mail linda@universalcomedy.co.uk. Workshops will be held in locations where there is a sufficient demand. For more information visit www.universalcomedy.co.uk.

Health is a laughing matter!

The Edinburgh based Centre of Health and Wellbeing (CHWB) offers laughter workshops with the aim of improving health. The Centre has been delivering laughter events, projects and training using laughter for the last five years in the health, education and the corporate world. The Centre won a Social Enterprise Award from the Melting Pot last August and recently received funding to train up NHS Tayside Nurses as Certified Laughter Yoga Leaders in response to public health document.

Evaluation of their recent workshops showed 90% of participants were in a good or very good mood after the workshop, compared with 51% before the sessions – an increase of 39%. The effect lasted the remainder of the day on which the workshop took place.

New evaluation report from the Community Development Foundation

The National Empowerment Partnership (NEP) and Targeted Support Empowerment and Participation Improvement (TSEPI) programme final evaluation reports are now available for download on the CDF

website.

Launched by the UK Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG), NEP ran from July 2007 to 31st March 2011 and was committed to supporting and improving empowerment activities across England. Managed by the Community Development Foundation (CDF) the programme was delivered at a regional level through nine regional empowerment partnerships (REPs).

The £9 million TSEPI fund ran between October 2009 and March 2011 and focused on 105 local authorities (LAs) with low levels of community engagement, or with an interest in improving engagement. TSEPI worked with community members and organisations to improve on how they engaged with their communities. The programme encouraged applicants to link activities to wider empowerment and cohesion activities, including Connecting Communities.

Community Resilience – a handbook based on global experience

The Fiery Spirits Community of Practice has launched a new handbook about how communities are preparing for and coping through difficult times. Beginning with Cumbria's experience from the floods of November 2009, the book takes the reader on a journey from remote Scottish communities to inner city London, and from New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina to Ireland after the credit crunch.

The book Exploring Community Resilience is produced by a network of community activists, professionals and policy makers which is supported by Carnegie UK Trust.

The book is available free of charge for online viewing at www.fieryspirits.com and a limited number of printed copies are available to purchase from the same link for £12.50 (inc. p&p).

For more information, contact nick@carnegieuk.org and follow updates on twitter @comresilience

Health – high on our agenda!

The Office for National Statistics has published the results of a UK-wide study of more than 34,000 people, asking what matters most to them and what influences their wellbeing.

Our health is one of the key areas mattering most to people in addition to: connections with other people such as family and friends and the local community; job satisfaction and adequate income and wealth; work-life balance; meaning and purpose; the environment and government services. There is also a commonly held view that there should be a greater sense of fairness and equality.

Self Management Week

Long Term Conditions Alliance Scotland (LTCAS) will be running this year's Self Management Week from 3-7 October 2011. The aim of the week is to promote the awareness raising campaign 'My Condition, My Terms, My Life' and other self management work that is happening across the third sector, health and social care.

There are a number of ways for individuals and organisations to get involved, including national showcase events in Glasgow and Aberdeen and local events to improve understanding of how self management of long term conditions supports people to live their lives better, on their terms.

Another way to get involved is to recognise good practice through the Self Management Awards which LTCAS are hosting as a focal point of Self Management Week. Anyone can nominate a person or organisation for one of the categories in the Self Management Awards. Members of the public, voluntary organisations and health and social care services are encouraged to submit nominations with the aim of highlighting good practice and promoting a range of self management work.

For more information on the categories and to download an application form, go to:

<http://www.ltcas.org.uk/news-and-events/events/spotlight/self-management-week/#self-management-awards>

The deadline for nominations is Friday 26 August.
