New CHEX website!

The new CHEX website is up and running and can be viewed at www.chex.org.uk. It has links to all the latest information and resources relating to community-led health as well as the latest on our training and development support. More resources and news will be added as they come so we recommend that you bookmark the CHEX website as one of your 'favourites'!

Strategic Review of Engagement between the Scottish Government Health and Social Care Directorates and the Third Sector

CHEX is participating in a Scottish Government short-life working group to review engagement between the Scottish Government Health and Social Care Directorates and the Third Sector – other national health intermediaries in the group include: Health Scotland, Community Food Health Scotland, Voluntary Health Scotland, Long Term Conditions Alliance, SCVO, Senscot, Palliative Care Scotland and Alzheimer Scotland. In consulting with a number of community-led health organisations they are keen that we:

- reflect previous and current arrangements that have enabled effective engagement between NHS health services and community-led health organisations (within the third sector)
- reflect evidence and practical actions that have enabled effective engagement
- highlight the preventative role in ill health and social care that community-led health organisations undertake.

If you would like to hear more about the work of the Group or feed in your thoughts, contact Janet Muir Janet@scdc.org.uk.

CLD in Scotland: Changes and pressures

Community Learning & Development Managers Scotland (CLDMS) has produced a report that looks at how local authorities' provision of CLD services may be changing in 2011/12 in the light of pressures both for spending reductions and to contribute to achieving national priorities. It looks at changes in budgets and staffing, where services are located and what priorities have been set for them.

Of particular note is that of the three strands of CLD - youth work, adult learning, and community capacity building (CCB) - the most adversely affected by budget cuts is community capacity building. Across Scotland CCB budgets are reducing by 10% (comparing 2010/11 with 2011/12), with adult learning budgets reducing by 6%, while youth work is almost unaffected.

New walk-in hearing aid clinic

A new clinic called 'Hear to Help' has been set up by Action on Hearing Loss. It provides new batteries and new earmould tubing, advice on how to use and clean hearing aids and information on hearing loss and all the services that can help. It will run on Tuesdays (6 September, 4 October, 1 November and 6 December) at 11am-1pm at John Lewis Glasgow, 3rd Floor Community Room, Buchanan Galleries, Glasgow G1 2GF

For more information contact: Donna McSwiggan, 0141 341 5338 or donna.mcswiggan@hearingloss.org.uk

BIG on assets

Big Lottery Fund research has shown that communities which own their own assets are better able to run services that are relevant to local people. Antisocial behaviour can also be reduced as a result. To read more on this story and for other third sector related news, visit the Third Force News website

Responses to regeneration discussion paper

The Scottish Government has produced a summary of the responses received to its regeneration discussion paper Building a Sustainable Future. There have been more than 70 responses to the discussion paper and these will be used to help develop the Scottish Government's regeneration strategy.

SCDC is encouraged that the responses give strong support for community-led regeneration, with a "significant emphasis placed on expanding the role of community groups." The summary also states that "there was some criticism that current structures do not allow for 'unheard voices' to be taken account of - with community activity based around existing groups and not taking account of marginalised communities or those individuals who are not involved in organised groups." Furthermore, some respondents felt that groups need to be given adequate support and capacity building in order to make best use of community assets.

Community-led health in the Government's Programme for Scotland 2011-2012

The Scottish Government has set out its priorities for 2011-12 in Renewing Scotland: The Government's Programme for Scotland 2011-2012.

The programme puts considerable emphasis on integrated care, prevention, and citizen control and responsibility. The Government will also be putting forward a Social Care (Self-directed Support) Bill which would force local authorities to provide more options for self-care and carer support.

There is some detail in the programme on how a preventative approach will be implemented in health, including:

- A continued focus on early years and inequalities with the Ministerial Task Force on Health Inequalities being reconvened in 2012 to review Equally Well progress and related social policy frameworks
- Building on the success of the Change Fund (focusing on reducing need for acute care for older people)

More generally, the Scottish Government refers to the Christie Commission on the Future Delivery of Public Services in Scotland, which issued its report earlier this year. Following Christie, the Government proposes to reform public services so they are more preventative, place-based, collaborative and transparent. A newly convened Cabinet sub-committee on public service reform will take forward the Christie recommendations.

CONSULTATIONS AND SURVEYS

back to top

Plans to reform children's services

The Scottish Government is developing new approaches for services for children and young people, based on: prevention, appropriate early intervention, child-centred service delivery and support for parents to build their confidence and capacity. Consultation has already started on The Rights of Children and Young People Bill, with a Children's Services Bill planned for 2013. Read more about the consultation here

SCVO seeks views on Prevention

With Comprehensive Spending Review discussions already taking place, the Scottish Government is actively looking for ideas and evidence to help decide where to invest to progress the prevention agenda.

SCVO is preparing a report on prevention in order to influence this agenda and would like to hear the views of others with regard to the following:

- What have you been doing on the prevention agenda?
- What could be scaled up or replicated if there were the resources?
- What are the key areas the Scottish Government should invest resources in prevention?
- Are there any areas where preventative services have not been developed but which could help reduce demand on public purse?
- What kind of preventative services should the Scottish Government focus on in order to have the biggest impact?

Email your thoughts to SCVO policy officer nick.waugh@scvo.org.uk

Accessible Tourism Involvement Event – Galashiels

Inclusion Scotland is working in partnership with Capability Scotland and VisitScotland to find out from disabled people how tourism can be made more accessible for disabled people in Scotland. An event to gather disabled people’s opinions and ideas will be held on Thursday 15 September 2011 at Volunteer Halls, St. John St, Galashiels, TD1 3JX. The event will run from 10.00 – 14.30 and will involve taking part in discussion groups about issues relating to tourism.

If you would like to book a place at this event please contact Angela Marshall by email: angelam@inclusionscotland.org or telephone 0141 221 7589.

PUBLICATIONS	back to top

New Greenspace Scotland publications

Greenspace Scotland, in partnership with Scottish Natural Heritage, have published a report highlighting the potential for greenspace to contribute to climate change action in urban Scotland. Drawing on climate change research, international case studies and the experience of practitioners from across Scotland, the report looks at the potential role for different types of greenspace in both climate change mitigation and adaptation.

The report also highlights and tries to address some of the challenges and barriers to developing 'climate change greenspaces'.

The research report 'Developing the role of greenspace in climate change mitigation and adaptation' is available to download at www.greenspacescotland.org.uk/climatechange/

Also newly released is Scotland's Greenspace Map, which shows the location and type of all Scotland’s urban greenspaces, whether parks, playing fields, allotments, play areas or gardens.

Equally Well Learning Network

Equally Well is the Scottish Government's framework aimed at reducing health inequalities within the Scottish population. This learning forum started off as a space for the 8 equally well test sites to talk and learn, with new ideas being generated and spread. The learning space is now for anyone who is interested in improving health and reducing health inequalities. It covers a range of emerging areas of focus, such as the assets approach.
